

PROCESS FLOW

CZ is well versed in real world manufacturing requirements. We put our 20+ years of experience into ensuring we deliver a quality product every time.

CZ Electronics adds value beyond just manufacturing, we can offer guidance and expertise at every point of the A to Z nature of electronics manufacturing. Whether you are new to product manufacturing or a seasoned pro, you'll find your ideal partner in CZ Electronics.

FROM START...

Utilising our network of global suppliers and strategic partners we have sourced the best technology, materials and components available. By bringing these components under one roof & engineering a bespoke range of products CZ has established itself as a manufacturer of its own range of world class consumer electronics. Products produced include LED Television, Monitors, Set Top Boxes, and Smart Home Management systems.

A typical product manufacturing lifecycle starts with product specification and R&D down to component requirement level. All TV tuner electronics are engineered and then built locally from components sourced from multiple blue-chip vendors. Once finalized, component orders are placed with multiple suppliers around the world. These components are then shipped to South Africa. There is a full declaration at component level when the goods arrive in South African ports.

With the components in South Africa, we work through various logistics and local shipping agents to ensure timeous delivery to the CZ factory.

With everything at our factory, the sub-component manufacturing process begins at the hands of our highly skilled workforce using the latest machinery available. With the sub-components ready to go, we move on to the final product assembly. With the products now assembled, product testing takes place. Every product goes through CZ's world-renowned quality and testing procedures to ensure a end product of the highest possible quality. Once we're satisfied, products get packed and ready for shipping. With all the details signed off, and per the timelines agreed with our clients beforehand, the products are delivered to client.

...TO FINISH

CZ's product specification, procurement, logistics and production processes are tried and trusted. Strict adherence to the flow of components and expected delivery timelines is what ensures we deliver a quality product, at the right price, on time.
